

LCM DocIntel Test Document

This is a test document for the LCM DocIntel RAG platform. The platform provides enterprise-grade document intelligence capabilities including semantic search, question answering with citations, and multilingual support for Greek and English documents.

The system uses advanced retrieval augmented generation (RAG) techniques to provide accurate answers from uploaded documents. Every response includes source citations to ensure transparency and trustworthiness.

Key features include: per-client data isolation with separate VPC deployments, role-based access control via Keycloak, audit logging for compliance, and near-zero hallucination tolerance with faithfulness scoring.